First Annual Meeting of the Deep Waterways Convention.

Gen. Edward C. O'Brien, of New York, Selected as Temporary Chairman-Mayor McKlason Delivers an Address of Welcome-Others Respond.

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 25 .- The first annual convention of the International Deep Waterwaya association was opened at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Gen. Edward C. O'Brien, of New York, president of the New York Dock commission and ex-commissioner of navigation of the United States was selected temporary chairman.

He said: "I thank you most heartily for the great honor you have done me in making me temporary chairman of such a convention as this, and I congratulate you on its auspicious opening, and bright promises of results great and far reaching for good for our fellow men. I consider this be one of the most important public gatherings ever assembled in this country, certainly the most important of the past 25 years. Firstly, because of the nature of the questions we are here to consider, and secondly, because of its cosmopolitan character, and the presence of so many men representative of the great forces engaged in the commercial, industrial and legislative history of North America; men eminent for learning, professional and executive ability and the trust and esteem of communities of which they accredited representatives. I here because I believe as you do, that an adequate waterway uniting these great lakes with the sea will, more than any other one thing, bring increased prosperity to our people, and because you, who have given so much study to this question, by your deliberations will bring into relief its transcendent influence for good and dissipate the clouds of doubt as to transportation on these great lakes and in their tributary basins have reached that stage in their development when it becomes absolutely necessary for you to get relief from the congestion and bring your surplus products to the seaboard cheaper than can be done by existing means. What is so necessary to the people in the heart of the continent will prove to be scarcely less im-The poly will be oren a. 6 a. m. and portant to us on the seaboard, and I have no hesitancy in saying that when you have carefully sifted the matter and formulated your desires in a fully matured plan which can meet and in adequate waterway to the seaboard

E. V. Smalley, president of the St. Paul chamber of commerce and publisher of the Northwest Magazine, responded to the mayor's address on behalf of the American delegates. He said: "Cleveland has been demonstrated to be the most convenient point where the ores of Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan can meet the coals of Ohio. Cheap iron ore is possible in Cleveland only through the improvements in the channels of the great lakes, which have produced the big propellers, whalebacks and barges, you were still bringing iron ore down from Lake Superior in the little schooner of former days you would have no city of 350,000 people here at the mouth of the Cuyahoga river. Cleveland is the sturdy product of deep water navigation. It has outstripped all other Ohio cities because of its position near the lower end of the thousand miles of deep waterway which now reaches from Duluth and Superior to the Niagara river. Its prosperity will be increased when that waterway no longer terminates at Euffalo, but is extended eastward to meet the tidal flow of the Atlantic.

At the evening session International President Sir Oliver A. Howland, M. P., delivered his annual address. He commended the work of Secretary Flower. and continuing said:

"If the people of the United States and Canada can be induced to labor as comrudes in the conquest over the obstruction of nature, never again will they be capable of regarding each other as strangers. This is a convention of practical men for practical work. It is our de-sire to lay broad foundations for the future good of our fellow men. We have three classes of obstacles to overcome. First, we must convince the governments of the practical utility of our scheme, and this is already half accomplished. The second is the jeniousy we may espect from the powerful railroad world Even this may be overcome, but still pressing upon us we will find international loaiousy and distrust. We should not deceive ourselves

Referring to the possible contingency of war. Sir Oliver said: "While the latest possibility of war exists however remotely, it must create not unreasonable grounds of argument against entering into an undertaking involving complicate interests and relations which a state of war or even sumity would throw into serious confusion. Nor can it be forgotten that whatever wealth and strength the other country shall attain to in this instance may some day be turned to purposes of war Treaties would be found ineffectual to prevent

Sir Oliver cites at length the famous Washington treaty of 1860 as an instance "To s aside the possibility of war," he continue "the constitution of a permanent international high court was included in our piattern. It recommends to the two nations the formation of a high court for the settlement of all dim-culties between them. This is not only the consideration of waterway controversies, but the possibility of war between the swo coantries should be made as remote as that of war between the states of the union.

The possibility of war between the swo coantries should be made as remote as that of war between the states of the union.

The president concluded his Address, which was received with great enthusiasm, by saying: "Let us not relax the effort to bring these great nations to an agreement for establishing the securities for peace and international justice upon what we believe to be broad, rational and perpetual foundations."

The regular programme was set aside, the informal debates being passed until Wednesday to give delegates time to study the papers. Congressman Towns, of Duluth. and Gov. Burke, of Dakota, concluded the session by delivering short addresses favoring a canal from the great lakes to Wool Warehouse Burned.

PRILADELPHIA, Sept. 25.—The six story wool warehouse of Chas. J. Webb & Co., No. 116 Chestnut street, was destroyed by fire Tuesday night and several buildings adjoining in the rear were badly damaged. The fire started in the basement in the rear of Webb & Co.'s building at 6:15 p. m. and burned furiously for an hour when the flames were partially subdued. The loss on buildings and stock about 5200,000, fully covered by insurance.

The Water Famine at Wilkesbarre. WILBESBARRE, Pa., Sept. 25.-The water famine has not yet been relieved, and Tuesday the situation was, if anything, worse. The pumping of water from the river, it was thought, would bring relief, but the pipes have proved too small and one of the pumps played out. A special meeting of the city council was held Tuesday night, and it was decided to take radical action against the water companies unless relief was afforded at once.

Twelve Miners Entombed.

O'FALLON, Ill., Sept. 25 .- The entire top works of the Mentor coal mine situated on the Baltimore and Ohio Southwestern railroad a few miles west of this place were destroyed by fire Tuesday morning. Twelve miners are entombed in the mine. The origin of the fire is unknown. The loss will be about $10,000. The mine is owned by the Consolidated Coal Co., of St.

Scarcity of Water at Altoons, Pa. ALTOONA, Pa., Sept. 25.-The water was shut off from the people of this city Tuesday night without warning and many were caught without sufficient to prepare supper. There is scarcely a day's supply in the reservoirs, but a man is stationed to turn the water into the mains in case of fire. There is no probability of rain and the prospects before the people is a gloomy one.

Brush Fires Destroying Property. NICOLLET, Que., Sept. 25.-Extensive brush fires are burning in this vicinity. At St. Leonard seven or eight houses have been destroyed. St. Bertute reports three houses burned. At St. Eulatic a wide area has been burned over and nearly 100 houses have been destroyed. At Sylvois farmers have been practically ruined.

Ex-Teller Bokkelen Indicted. CHICAGO, Sept. 25 .- A true bill was returned by the grand jury Tuesday in the case of Ross C. Van Bokkelen, the absconding teller of the Merchants' Loan and Trust Co. The exact amount of his embezzlement was told the jury to be $33,700. Detectives claim to know where he is and will arrest him when

MACKINAW CITY, Sept. 25.-The Queen City, a schooner owned by C. E. Benham, of Cleveland, and valued at $18,000, was wrecked on Hog Island reef Monday. The crew were rescued by the Beaver Island life savers after a night of suffering in the rigging, and were brought here Tuesday. At 8t. Peter's Tomb RAME, Sept. 25.—Shahsada Nazrulla Kahn, son of the ameer of Afghanistan, and his suite, recited the Mohammedian prayer for the repose of a de-parted soul at St. Peter's tomb, Tuesit was a most impressive scene
